

Non-Flammable, Solid State Lithium Battery Electrolytes

Brian Dixon¹ and R. Scott Morris¹

¹Phoenix Innovation, Inc.
Box 550
20 Patterson Brook Road
West Wareham, MA 02576
USA

Solid state electrolytes are described which are ionically very conductive, and non-flammable. These novel multi-heteropolymer electrolytes represent a significant advance in the design of high performance rechargeable lithium systems that possess superior safety and handling characteristics. In addition, the design is based upon economical materials and processing techniques.